National Emergency Situation Is in Air; Senators Wrangling Over Problem

Time Is Short

Ives Plan Would Deal Separately With Each Work Stoppage

Washington, June 11 (AP)—Democratic and Republican senators leading the battle against injunctions to halt national emergency strikes are arguing among themselves over what to offer instead.

A work stoppage members of the bipartisan group said they were united behind a plan calling for presidential seizure of struck plants in labor disputes which imperil national health or safety.

Now the group is split into at least two factions—one sticking by the original plan, the other favoring action by Congress whenever a critical strike occurs.

An aide of one senator told a reporter "the whole national emergency thing is up in the air higher than a kite."

The Taft-Hartley Law provides for "hot" injunctions against critical strikes. The big labor unions are bitterly opposed to that provision. So are some senators.

No Injunction Plan

The administration's labor bill, which the Senate has been debating for a week, would repeal the Taft-Hartley Law and re-enact the old Wagner Act with a few amendments.

The bill has no provision for emergency injunctions. It calls only for a 30-day cooling off period in big disputes affecting the national welfare.

Most senators opposed to the injunction feel that the administration bill's national emergency section goes too far in the other direction. Hence the drive to turn up an alternative plan.

Time is running short. It looks now as though the Senate will start voting next week on amendments to the administration measure, and the national emergency issue is likely to come up first.

Senator Hill (D-Ala.), one of the members of the bipartisan group, said he still is for the originally proposed seizure amendment. Senator Douglas (D-Ill.) reportedly is standing by it, too.

But Senator Morse (R-Ore.), who was slated to introduce it, is understood to be leaning more to another amendment sponsored by Senator Ives (R-N.Y.).

New Yorker's Plan

Under the Ives plan, the President would have to call on Congress to deal separately with each critical strike which occurred after he had appealed to the disputants to stay at work. If the President recommended seizure, it could not go into effect for at least 10 days, then if both branches of Congress voted the idea. But Morse is said to favor stripping the Ives amendment to the seizure factor entirely.

The disagreement among foes of the injunction increased the optimism of Senator Taft (R-Ohio) about his chances for retaining the court order provision of the present law.

At the end of yesterday's debate, the Senate put aside the labor bill until it has acted on the international wheat agreement. Leaders expect the labor argument to be resumed by Tuesday.

Senator Humphrey spoke for 4½ hours yesterday, devoting most of the time to sharp attack on the Taft-Hartley law. He plans to pick up where he left off when the Senate gets back on the labor bill.

Stowaway Can't See Wife, Child

Frankfurt, Germany, June 11 (AP)—Daniel Little, ex-G.I. from Portland, Ore., who stowed away on an army transport to see his German wife and child, must go back home, possibly without seeing his family.

The 31-year-old Little arrived in Bremerhaven Thursday on the army transport General Maurice Rose. His wife, Margaret Kreuger Little, 30, lives at Darmstadt.

When the ship docked, Little, who had given himself up at sea when he got hungry, was turned over to U. S. military authorities. He was handed over to German officials and lodged in a Bremerhaven jail. The court ruled he must return to the U. S. aboard the same transport when it sails from Bremerhaven tomorrow.

Little said he had tried to get his wife and son to the United States but had no luck because U. S. authorities would not recognize his marriage.

Little, veteran of the Sicily and southern France invasions, had been married secretly under German law after his commanding officer refused him permission to wed.

Held in Baseball Bat Deaths of Woman and Son

Robert Gemberling, 29-year-old truck driver, was ordered held on a homicide charge in connection with the deaths of Mrs. Jean Mills and her 9-year-old son, Michael Lubowski, beaten to death with the boy's baseball bat as they slept in their Philadelphia apartment. Gemberling, shown flanked by two detectives, was quoted by Police Captain James Kelly as saying he killed the two for revenge.

MRS. JEAN MILLS MICHAEL LUBOWSKI

Second Student Slaying in 7 Months Is Shock to Colorado U.

Boulder, Colo., June 11 (AP)—The 19-year-old Denver sophomore was killed Thursday night defending his "blind" date from the attack of an unknown assailant. His date, Doris Ann Weaver, 19, of Twin Falls, Idaho, ran to safety on the campus nearby.

The killer battered the youth mercilessly and threw his body into Boulder creek. The body was found 75 yards downstream yesterday.

Dean of Men Harry Carlson said the school would assemble for faculty authorities a list of Spore's classmates and Miss Weaver's boy friend.

Dr. Angelo Lapi, Denver medical examiner, said after an autopsy that there were similarities between the deaths of Spore and Theresa Foster, University coed killed Nov. 9.

Joe Walker was convicted May 9 of Miss Foster's death despite his story that a "bawdy blonde" youth killed her. His attorneys have filed for a new trial. He has not been sentenced.

Dr. Lapi, who also examined Miss Foster's body, said that in both cases the attack was vicious and the blows were centered on the victim's head.

Miss Weaver gave authorities only a scant description of the attacker. "She said he was tall and slim."

Dr. Lapi said Spore apparently died of drowning, but that the blows to his head—29 deep cuts and at least four fractures—would have caused his death later.

He said he found no evidence of a sexual attack on the body. Using a blunt instrument, Dr. Lapi said, the killer apparently continued to batter the unconscious youth after his first blows knocked him to the creek bank. Cuts to the victim's hands and arms indicated he threw them up to ward off the blows.

Spore was handicapped by a cast on his leg. He injured it in a university celebration May 1. He was to have returned home Thursday, fraternity brothers said, but remained because the cast was to be removed yesterday. They said he called the girl's dormitory Thursday night and made a "blind" date with Miss Weaver.

Miss Weaver was to have left for home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Weaver, Thursday, but did not have her bags packed and the departure was postponed until the next day.

The killer crept up behind the pair as they sat beside the creek. He hit Miss Weaver, first and turned to Spore when the youth yelled "run, Doris, run."

Senators Call for Cut in European Aid Program; Truman Irked By Economy, to Plead for Plan

'Plain Talk' on Foreign Policy Stated Today by President Before His War Buddies

Broadcast at 3:30

Speech of International Importance Declares Governor McMath

Little Rock, Ark., June 11 (AP)—President Truman, disturbed by congressional economy bloc efforts to slash funds for European aid, decided to resort to what his associates said would be "plain-talk" today to save his program.

Meanwhile, he and the boys of the 35th Division whooped it up in another reunion.

His address, which he said would be a "very important" foreign policy speech, was scheduled for delivery at 3:30 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

Gov. Sid McMath, his official host, said the President told him the address would be of major importance in the international field, and that it would be broadcast by all the major radio networks and beamed overseas.

And the President gave the speech another build-up at a ball in his honor last night.

Addressing the dancers, he said he could not join them on the floor because his dancing education had been neglected.

"I'm a Baptist but not a tight-foot one," he said.

Then he went on to say: "If you want to hear the President of the United States, come out to the stadium tomorrow."

"I'll tell you something that will be good for your souls."

But, as he awaited the time for his talk dedicating a park as a memorial to the dead of two world wars, the President joined in the convention revelry.

As "Captain Harry" of Battery D, he summoned World War comrades of the 129th Field Artillery to a 7 o'clock breakfast and said he would walk with them in their annual parade.

The breakfast and parade, like yesterday's appearances, sounded a light note.

Addressing some of the reunion delegates at a reception at Hotel Marion, the President took note of congressional gaiety.

Speaking broadly, he said he hoped they have their "usual good time" and still be able to "go home without a headache."

Mr. Truman, who arrived here by plane yesterday afternoon, is flying back to Washington after his address.

His sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman of Independence, Mo., is with him. So is his cousin, Major General Ralph E. Truman and General Truman's wife.

Reynolds Says Driver Hit Car, Didn't Stop

Thomas W. Reynolds, 27 West Chestnut street, reported to police this morning that his automobile was struck and damaged by an unidentified automobile which backed out of a driveway on Broadway near the railroad crossing at 1:10 a. m.

Reynolds stated to police he was driving south on Broadway when this automobile backed into the rear of his car, then continued on without stopping. Reynolds turned around and pursued the offending automobile up Broadway to Cornell street, but lost it in the vicinity of Clifton avenue, he said.

The Reynolds car received damage to its right rear fender, hub cap and the right side of the rear bumper was torn loose, police said.

Po'keepsie Men Plead Guilty

New York, June 11 (AP)—Two men, who allegedly forced a taxicab driver at gunpoint to drive them here from Poughkeepsie last March 5, Friday pleaded guilty to first degree robbery charges.

Bronx County Judge Samuel Joseph remanded the pair for sentencing June 30. They are: Charles Veech, 27, of 56 Front street, Poughkeepsie, and Clayton Craver, 20, of Philmont, N. Y.

Already facing a possible 10 to 30 year term on the robbery charge, the men are scheduled to plead to a kidnapping indictment June 30.

The two were charged with forcing Frank Dunagan, 40, of Staatsburg, N. Y., to drive to the Bronx, where they left him bound in his taxicab after robbing him of $10.37. They were seized by radio policemen.

Tucker Indicted

Preston T. Tucker (above), promoter of the Tucker automobile that never got into mass production, was indicted, June 10, by a federal grand jury in Chicago.

The jury returned indictments charging Tucker with mail fraud, SEC violations and conspiracy. The jury, which spent 12 weeks investigating the affairs of Tucker and his corporation, also indicted seven of his associates.

Baby Is Drowned In Cistern on Plattekill Farm

Little Jerry Strickland, 21 Months Old, Falls Into Deep Water While Playing

A 21-month-old baby drowned Friday evening when he fell into an open cistern on his parent's farm about two miles north of Plattekill, state police at Highland reported.

The baby, Jerry Strickland, son of Elmer and Lorraine Strickland, R.F.D. Walkkill, was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh by Dr. Elume, a staff physician.

Corner Jesse McGuire of Walkkill said the death has been listed as accidental death by drowning.

The child apparently fell into the cistern while playing on the farm, state police said. He was removed after about one-half hour by an uncle, whose name is not known, according to Coroner McGuire's report, and was rushed to the hospital by a neighbor. The cistern contained six feet of water, the coroner said.

State police at Highland were notified of the accident at 7:15 p. m., just after the boy had been taken from the cistern.

Gillette Irked

Washington, June 11 (AP)—A blast by Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) at one of the President's appointments sounded a sour note today in the Democratic run-up for the forthcoming Des Moines farm meeting. Gillette, who had been counted on to help preach the administration's doctrine in his state in next year's election, said yesterday that the President's choice of Carroll Switzer for federal judge in Iowa "came as a great and unpleasant surprise to me."

Washington, June 11 (AP)—Congress will get a look at the loyalty records of key Atomic Energy Commission employees, but behind the closed doors of the Senate-House Atomic Committee. That decision was made by a 9 to 8 vote of the committee yesterday.

Scientist Quits

Nashville, Tenn., June 11 (AP)—A young atomic scientist, accused of recruiting for the Communist party, has left his job as associate professor of physics at Fisk University. Fisk President Charles S. Johnson said last night 28-year-old Giovanni Rossi Lomanitz walked off the campus after refusing to admit or deny he was a Communist.

Damage to Wiring

Slight damage in the wiring of a 1944 dump truck at the corner of Wurts and Pierpont streets at 9:48 a. m., today was caused by a short circuit in the electrical system, the fire department reported. The truck is owned by Mary Reilly and driven by Frank Reilly, both of 37 Stuyvesant street, Breemen said.

Berlin, June 11 (AP)—The Russian Military Government has agreed to renew four-power talks on German trade and transport problems here tonight, American officials announced.

McCarran, After Study, Asks $780,000,000 Slash; Says Project Too Big for One Man

Praises Hoffman

George for Spreading Money Over Year, Not 10½ Months

Washington, June 11 (AP)—Senators called today for cuts of up to $780,000,000 in the European recovery program.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told reporters the Econ. Cooperation Administration can stand a 10 per cent cut in the $3,568,470,000 fund voted by the House. He said he will back such a cut.

But Senator McCarran (D-Nev.), a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said he will urge a flat $780,000,000 slash. McCarran said he is basing his recommendation on a study made by the staff of the Senate House "Watchdog" committee.

McCarran said "E.C.A. Chief Paul Hoffman has done as good a job as any one man could do."

"But the project is too big," he added, "and in many places it has gotten away from him."

Chairman McKellar (D-Tenn.) of the Appropriations Committee angrily told Hoffman yesterday that his resignation "would be a very good thing."

Senator George (D-Ga.) told a reporter there is no disposition in the Senate to cripple E.C.A. But he said he favors making the agency spread the $3,568,470,000 over 12 months instead of the 10½ months allowed by the House.

George said he is confident Hoffman can spread the money over 12 months because of declining prices. If this money is not "enough adequate," he added, then Hoffman could come back to Congress for what he needed to finish the job.

Hoffman has said he will not return and ask for more money. He said he will try to do the job with whatever money he gets even if the program "goes to pot."

But he added he will step out as administrator if he believes he cannot do the job with the money furnished by Congress.

It was that statement by Hoffman which led to McKellar's bitter comment: "I hope you do resign."

Outboard Race Sunday

New York, June 11 (AP)—A record fleet of 312 motorboats will compete tomorrow in the annual 140-mile outboard marathon from Albany to New York city. More than 150,000 spectators are expected to line the banks of the Hudson river to see the drivers battle for the Outboarders trophy and top prize of $1,000 as well as other cash awards totaling $3,500. The race will involve six individual classes and will be started in two sections. Classes D, E, and F will start first at 7:45 a. m. (E.S.T.), with classes A, B and C following at 9:30 a. m. (E.S.T.).

100 Priests Imprisoned

Prague, June 11 (AP)—A high Roman Catholic Church official reported today that Dr. Antonin Mandl, 30-year-old secretary of the church's secular Aetio Catholica, was seized by security police last night. The official said that priests are being arrested every day and "more than 100" are in Czechoslovak prisons. Mandl was identified as a secular priest.

Newkirk, Kramer Going to Syracuse

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk is scheduled to leave the city tomorrow to attend the 40th annual conference of New York state mayors at Syracuse June 13, 14 and 15.

The mayor will preside at the annual banquet of the conference June 14. He will be accompanied on the trip by City Clerk Bernhard S. Kramer, who will attend the conference of the New York State Association of City and Village Clerks, which will be held concurrently.

Alderman-at-large Charles J. Turck, will be acting mayor during Mayor Newkirk's absence.

Mrs. Henry Singer, Revs. Gollnick, Drury Named Fire Aid Committee

With contributions pouring in to aid the 15 persons who lost their homes and most of their possessions in the fire Tuesday afternoon, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk today announced the appointment of a committee to receive contributions and distribute them to meet the needs of the fire victims.

Heading the committee will be Mrs. Henry Singer of 118 Foxhall avenue. Other members will be the Very Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury and the Rev. Frank Lawrence Gollnick.

The fire aid fund already turned in to the mayor's office amounts to $119. This includes $82.50 collected by Luigi Montone, $25 from the Kingston Newspaper Guild, $9.50 collected by employees of the city engineering department and $2 from Raphael Klein.

In addition to that turned in to the mayor's office, the Kingston Uniformed Firemen's Association has pledged $100 to the relief of the families, and "another fund will be raised by the Joyce-Schirlick Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, by a dance to be held Monday evening at the municipal auditorium.

Emergency clothing and bedding needs were met by donations of many individuals in response to appeals from the Red Cross, Salvation Army, the Joyce-Schirlick Ladies' Auxiliary and other groups.

CHEATING AT EXAMS

A mid-western college professor sent out a questionnaire to students in many parts of the country, asking their reasons for cheating during examinations. He declares that the result is a disillusioning experience.

None of the culprits admitted that they were lazy or had neglected to study. Reasons given for cheating were emphasis on grades as a measure of learning, fear of failure for financial, family or employment reasons, the fact that other students cheat, and laxity on the part of faculty members.

This attitude indicates a sad lack of moral fiber among some college students. The habit of passing the buck in such matters shows a deplorable slowness and a deficiency in social responsibility. The reason that students or other individuals cheat in any of life's relationships is because they are weak and dishonorable.

Cheating is prima facie evidence of weakness; strong people never need to cheat. They face facts and accept the responsibility and consequences of their own actions. If a student has done his work, he will pass his exam honestly, with no special trouble. If he has not done it, he should not pass. He should make up his work or take it over. In other words he should give value for value. Cheating is trying to get something for nothing, or at a lower price than is fair.

The occasional weak and unfair soul is to be found in all walks of life. But to let cheating at exams seem normal is bad business for society in general.

Good luck is something that happens to superstitious people. Bad luck seems less choosy.

RESULTS OF BAD WINTER

The weather, sometimes the enemy and sometimes the ally of the farmer, rancher and cattleman, occasionally cancels out blows with blessings.

This fact has been illustrated in reports of the latest effects of the past severe winter. The huge amounts of snow deposited on the great western plains by seven weeks of blizzards have been absorbed as moisture by the land. The temperatures of the spring have regulated the melting and running off of the snow to the extent that fear of great general floods has not been realized. Irrigation water is plentiful and will continue so, because of snow piled on mountain tops.

While Nebraska reports severe winter wheat damage, good prospects are seen there for grain sown this spring. Kansas expects the third largest wheat crop on record. Other western states report crop prospects as good or better than average. Live stock owners are optimistic about this year's gains, which are expected nearly, if not quite, to make up for the winter's losses.

Farmers and ranchers, if they are to survive, must be philosophers. The disheartening lack of cooperation which often seems to be shown by Nature must be accepted with equanimity. Her occasional good moods must be seized upon and made use of. The year has been described as a circle; the farmer-philosopher must see it in the round and have faith that it encompasses complete fruition.

There don't seem to be as many tourist jokes as there used to be, but it is not for any lack of tourists helping to keep one part of the world aware of what is going on in the rest of it.

VOICE OF THE CHILDREN

A boy's-eye view of European children is that, while they are undersized physically, they are mentally mature. John Finerty, 16-year-old mayor of Children's Village, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., after visiting homes and camps in Germany, France and Italy, brought back this impression.

The children and young people he interviewed need food, clothing and shelter. But they think first of lasting peace, and are articulate in their desire for a strong world government, he said.

Children's camps care for many of the homeless, but rations are very short. Other

THE HISS CASE

The first important fact to the public in the Alger Hiss case now being tried is that Whittaker Chambers was actually in possession of secret documents which he had no right to have and which someone gave him. Chambers says that Alger Hiss gave these documents to him. No one could have given these papers to him except through an agency associated with the State Department which had access to these documents. No matter what happens in the Hiss case, the business of the government is to establish how Chambers got the papers. It is as simple as that.

The rules of evidence apply in a court of law and narrow the data that may be available portunately. Also, our law is designed to protect a man from being held guilty until he is so proved by the rules of evidence in a court of law. All this as it should be, and Alger Hiss has not been proved guilty, yet. He may never be proved guilty of having secretly, with his wife as sole witness, given these papers to Whittaker Chambers.

Nevertheless, Chambers had the papers. Some are in Hiss's handwriting, according to Chambers and the prosecution. Therefore, Chambers's credibility is not, in the public mind, an issue, although it may be in a court of law. In other words, Chambers may be, as he confesses, a liar, a perjurer, a thief, a writer of queer papers and an illicit lover, yet say nothing of his having been a spy for Soviet Russia, but he was in possession of papers and microfilm which he could not have gotten unless they were given to him by someone who had lawful access to them.

As I read what is happening in Judge Samuel H. Kaufman's court, it seems that those who planned Hiss's defense pursue only one line, which is to get him off in a court of law, but forget what is equally, if not more, important, which is to convince public opinion that he did not commit a vile act against the United States.

Suppose the able and dramatic lawyer, Lloyd Stryker, who is defending Hiss, proves that Chambers is a dostoyevsky-like character, or, in simpler language, a nut! That does not really help his client in the court of public opinion, although it may keep him out of prison, for always the public will wonder how Chambers got the papers. The only real defense for anyone can be to produce the culprit who supplied Stalin's spy.

This is a tough spot for Alger Hiss. The defense seems to insist upon proving that Whittaker Chambers is what he admits he is: a pretty shabby character. However, the ordinary person knows, even if lawyers do not or pretend in court that they do not know, that only a shabby person would engage in espionage against his own country. The Russians would not have hired Chambers to do this work, were Chambers not queer, to say the least. Also, Chambers admits all this. He admitted it in 1939 in his conversations with Isaac Don Levine and Adolf A. Berle, Jr.

Therefore, Mr. Stryker is producing nothing new when he establishes by the rules of evidence what Chambers has already established by his miserable life and by his confessions. And, of course, he perjured himself. That is normal in his line of work.

The defense has brought in a psychiatrist, a man of distinction, Dr. Carl Binger, who sits in court watching Chambers. The psychiatrist will perhaps say, in big, technical words, that Chambers is peculiar, that he actually enjoys the torture and shame of exposure. The prosecution may prove, as someone told me, correctly or incorrectly, that Dr. Binger has long been friendly with Alger Hiss and his wife, and that his child went to the Dalton school where Hiss was a teacher.

None of this, in one way or the other, will answer the question: Who in the State Department or close to it gave Chambers documents which went over Hiss's desk, some in Hiss's handwriting, for Chambers, as a spy for Soviet Russia, to send to that country? That question must be answered, if public opinion is to be satisfied.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

OVERWEIGHT IS REALLY AN AILMENT

When the thyroid gland in the neck is overactive, and so manufactures too much juice, this extra juice speeds up all the body processes and burns up fat and starch foods so that very little is stored in the fat depots of the body—under the skin, in the liver, and about the organs in the abdomen. This is goiter, and part or all of the thyroid gland must be removed in serious cases by surgery or X-ray treatment.

Where the thyroid gland is underactive and not enough juice manufactured, the body processes are slowed up, and so more of the fat forming foods—fats and starches—get stored up in the fat depots.

It so happens that in the great majority of overweights, the thyroid gland is not underactive and so physicians have been investigating the cause of overweight in those cases where the various glands that have to do with excess fat on the body—thyroid, pituitary, adrenal, sex—are not underactive.

In studying the loss of fat from fat depots, when the overweighted person is without food or strength, it was found that in normal individuals the blood gathered up more fat than from the overweights and used it as fuel. In addition to this, as the blood, rich in fat, passed through the tissues of these fat individuals, these tissues were "hungry" for fat, and so a great amount of the fat in the blood was taken from the blood and stored in the fat depots.

On the other hand, in those of normal weight, their tissues did not need so much fat for fuel, and the fat-laden blood passed through without leaving much, if any, fat. Thus, fat individuals take more fat from the blood when fat is being eaten, and less from their fat depots when no fat is being eaten.

What does the above mean to overweights? That just as pernicious anemia patients have to eat liver or use liver extract, and those with diabetes must diet and use insulin if they wish to live, so must overweights cut down on their starch and fat foods if they wish to correct their ailment—overweight.

Overweight and Underweight

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Washington — Doing Business with Communists—Despite one bad eye Ambassador Lew Douglas has concluded a long wrangle with the British for joint American recognition of the Chinese Communists. It won't be admitted officially, but the British wanted to recognize the Communists within two weeks after taking Shanghai. Motive: To save Hong Kong. Ambassador Douglas, however, acting on direct orders from Secretary Acheson, opposed and has succeeded in persuading the British to delay recognition until after the fall of Canton. The British have agreed to wait—with this proviso: They will be allowed to recognize the Chinese Communist regime a day or two ahead of the United States.

Klan Klan Minutes—Klavern No. 1, Atlanta, meets at 1984 Whitehall street, Atlanta, in the quarters of the A. F. of L. Seam-fitters and Plumbers Union. At a recent meeting, Klavern Ira Jett, an organizer of the American Bilbo Club which goes even further than the Klan in race hatred, got irate against Grand Dragon Green, wanted him to give an accounting of Klan funds. . . . Klan members have no knowledge of how much money is being taken in by the Klan or being spent, Klavern Jett and other rebellious members claimed.

The grand dragon's friends squelched the rebellion, but tension between the anti-Green and the pro-Green factions simmers beneath the surface. . . . The grand dragon already has been through one rebellion, when the original southern Klans broke away from him, setting up headquarters in Columbus, Ga. . . . (Green now calls them "A bunch of Bolsheviks.")

British Depression—Averell Harriman, Marshall Plan administrator for Europe, has been instructed to see what he can do to head off the British financial crisis, now jeopardizing European recovery. . . . Harriman has orders to get the British to devalue the pound, and to get tough if necessary. . . . Sir Stafford Cripps is dead set against devaluation, feels it is a mere temporary stopgap, in the end will raise prices for British consumers. But Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder seems anxious to rule British finances from this side of the Atlantic. . . . Note: John is right about one thing. The 1930 slump first started in England.

Mr. Truman's Worships—President Truman's pastor, the Rev. Edward H. Pruden, was a little worried that a recent story in this column about Mr. Truman's not liking a lot of to-do in church was meant to mean such to-do existed in the First Baptist Church, where the President frequently worships. . . . Such is not the case. Services are routine when the President worships and most of the congregation doesn't know whether Truman is present until the very end, when the Rev. Mr. Pruden asks that all remain seated until the President has departed. Then he escorts Mr. Truman down the center aisle to the door of the church. . . . The First Baptist Church has had two morning services ever since 1941, though it is even more crowded since Mr. Truman became President.

Money to Franco?—Generalissimo Franco of Spain is getting set to apply for a big American loan all over again. . . . For some strange reason the American embassy in Madrid has convinced Franco the Export-Import Bank really didn't mean it when it turned down Spain's request a couple of weeks ago. So Franco has ordered his financial experts to dust off the application and to try again. . . . The man behind his move is Paul Culbertson, U. S. charge d'affaires in Madrid, who seemed almost as crushed as Franco when the Export-Import Bank said no. . . . Sparks may fly when President Truman hears this because he just finished announcing that he is dead set against any American loan to Dictator Franco.

Crisis in Czechoslovakia—Secretary Acheson has summoned Joseph E. Jacobs, U. S. ambassador to Czechoslovakia, back home for consultations on the critical situation in Czechoslovakia. Prediction: Jacobs will be replaced by Ellis O. Briggs, U. S. ambassador to Uruguay, a tough-talker who has battled against Peron in South America. More trouble is expected in Czechoslovakia soon.

General Vaughan's Bubble The Congress still seems to take a dim view of giving foreign medals to poor Gen. Harry Vaughan. In fact, they are now blocking foreign medals to anybody.

Ever since George Washington's healthy precedent, Americans have been discouraged from accepting foreign medals—until quite recently. During the war, however, it became quite a fad in some army-navy circles—though it takes an act of Congress before an American citizen can actually accept a foreign decoration.

Recently the army tried to slip through a bill, granting Vaughan and others permission to wear foreign medals. But when Vaughan's name was discovered in the list, the House Armed Services Committee dropped the medals like hot pennies.

The other day, as a trial balloon, a bill came before the Senate authorizing some U. S. scientists to accept some British awards. This time they were civilians. But the debate lasted exactly two minutes. General Vaughan's name ended it all.

Senator Millard Tydings of Maryland, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, had stood up to explain the bill. "Congress," he droned, "passed a special act, applying only during the length of the war, which permitted military and other decorations during the war. But since that act has expired, it becomes necessary in each case, military or civilian, to have special legislation."

"Is the war over?" boomed out Ohio's Senator Robert Taft. "I should say some phases of it seem to be going on with increased intensity," retorted Tydings, with a sardonic grin.

"Does this bill cover the general who is connected with the White House?" asked New Hampshire's Senator Charles Tobey. "No, it does not," snapped Tydings. "It has nothing to do with any military personnel."

But though Vaughan's medal was not on the list, a motion by Republican leader Kenneth Wherry of Nebraska set the bill aside "temporarily." Meanwhile, the State Department, as temporary custodian for all these medals, is turning into a glorified hock shop.

BABSON on BUSINESS

New York, June 10—During the 28 years that I have been writing this weekly column, I have seldom suggested to my five million readers that they write their congressmen. I am doing so now, however, because of the indifference which I found as to government finances on my recent annual trip about the country.

Deficit Financing

For the first time in many years the government has reached the "parting of the ways" in connection with balancing the budget. Of course, during the war it was impossible to balance the budget and no one asked that it be done; but today the situation is very different. The country is now at peace; business is fairly good; employment continues to be high. On the other hand, due to the demands from abroad and the possibility of smaller income tax receipts, one of two things is necessary. Either taxes must be increased, or government expenses must be correspondingly reduced. The Hoover Commission recommends an annual reduction of three billion.

I believe that President Truman is an honest man, but I fear some of his advisors are either misleading him or else are ignorant of economic truths. He wants a balanced budget, but he seems unwilling to balance his budget in the obvious and sensible way—namely by reducing government expenses. This would be the natural way for any business to balance its budget; in fact this policy of economy would have saved Mr. Truman from undesired financial trouble which, through no fault of his, came upon his former haberdashery store which I visited a few weeks ago when in Kansas City.

The Present Danger

The present danger is that Congress to satisfy those who are opposed to increased taxes and also those who want to hold jobs for their friends, may cause the country to fall into the terrible and dangerous habit of deficit financing—that is, to run the government at a loss and borrow money to make up the difference. Such a borrowing policy is like a prohibitionist starting in to drink.

Write Your Congressman

Therefore, if you readers of this column are interested in getting a few cents of the Democratic Congress now in session in Washington. In other words, the recent decline in commodities and the accompanying increase in unemployment, is largely due to a fear amongst thoughtful people that proper efforts will not be made to reduce government spending and prevent further debt.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, June 9—Contrary to a superstition deliberately fostered by the criminal unionists and the Communists of the labor board, in the 'thirties, the enforcement of laws against assault, riot, arson, and vandalism is a duty of local and state police and city officials. Mayors, policemen, sheriffs and the like who willfully fail to protect life and property, whether from cowardice or in obedience to the "policy" of some criminal defaulter in the mayor's or the governor's chair, may be prosecuted themselves.

I have reported the evidence of criminal default of duty by many local and state cops in Michigan in obedience to a "policy" of appeasement toward Communist goons improvised by Frank Murphy of the Supreme Court when he was governor.

Today I present a more recent case of capitulation in Birmingham, Texas. This will be followed by a statement of the ideal police and objective, unemotional, non-political police work by George T. Barnes, supervising captain of the Chicago police, commanding the detail which deals with strikes and picket lines.

Relying on the Houston Post of June 3, we learn that Henry Brown of Austin, was escorted out of Austin by local police after a riot in which 12 men were injured. Brown is president of a company which is charged with no violation of any law and which employed law-abiding, non-union carpenters. He said policemen, with a sworn duty to enforce the laws against violence and an oath to uphold the law, failed to do so.

He said that unless he left town and withdrew the law-abiding carpenters, they "could not guarantee" to "handle the trouble that might ensue."

The victims in such cases have a right to shoot to kill anyone who attacks them or to shoot injuriously into an oncoming mob. Two victims of C.I.O. mobs actually did shoot two goons in the head and killed them in insurrections last year and both were acquitted by juries. The Carpenters' Union in the present case is the old-style craft union of the A.F.L., with headquarters in Indianapolis. The boss president of the carpenters is William L. Hutchisson, a Republican.

Brown personally appealed to Governor Jester for the protection of the Texas Rangers, who have a reputation for courage. The Galveston News reported that the law-abiding carpenters were attacked by a mob of 350 goons, and chased into a tourist hotel where they defended themselves with hatchets and hammers until the sheriff "broke up the brawl."

The item mentions no arrests and says the law-abiding citizens were besieged all night and all the next day with union men patrolling the streets around the camp. The News said the sheriff told the governor he needed no help. The police finally escorted 15 law-abiding carpenters out of town.

The issue here is not political or emotional. The case seems to present a typical surrender by the body sworn and paid to enforce the law, leaving the law-abiding citizen no choice but to kill or abandon his rights. Few citizens thus far have had the resolution to kill, even with legal justification. The result has been a serious impairment of confidence in government by good citizens and serious impairment of respect for government by criminals. Government is the force that protects one citizen from violence or death at the hands of another. Its reputation for reliable, impartial protection and justice should be precious to all men, and they may think about unionism.

Captain Barnes stated his case about a year ago before a subcommittee of the Congress consisting of one member, Clare E. Hoffman, of Michigan.

He first put on record the "manual of procedure in strikes and labor controversies" governing the Chicago police. The manual says the general duties of the police in strikes are to protect life and property and maintain order. Only the police may direct traffic and they are instructed to arrest pickets or goons who try to divert trucks or the personal cars of employers or other persons at such premises. The "policy" holds that anyone may enter or leave struck premises without being stopped or threatened. Union officials and pickets may speak to workers either in public or at their homes but only in an orderly manner. Pickets are not allowed to block entrances or impede traffic.

"When the picket line stops and becomes unruly it becomes a mob and subject to arrest," the manual says. "A mob consists of five or more persons. Sound trucks or loud speakers are a violation of a city ordinance."

Captain Barnes has the entire Chicago police force, about 6,500 trained men, at his command in emergencies. He goes to all dangerous situations himself whereas, in Michigan, one chief of police was afraid to appear where a mob was, and another appeared but ran away.

"If I had a thousand men with hands on their arms and clubs in their hands, at his other people and on my back the legend 'Flying Squadron' and I took over—" Mr. Hoffman began.

Captain Barnes interrupted: "You would be locked up. That would be a mob."

What would happen to him and his thousand men if they tried to direct traffic, Mr. Hoffman wanted to know. He was depicting actual conditions which unmanned government in Michigan.

"Your thousand men and you would be locked up," said Captain Barnes.

"How long would it take?" They would be locked up as soon as Captain Barnes could get enough patrol wagons.

He said that employers and the citizens are familiar with the police department policies and.

Buffaloes on March

Bangkok (AP)—The great water buffalo trek is underway again in Siam. Tens of thousands of buffalo are being driven from breeding farms in the Northeast provinces across more than 300 miles of jungles and plains to the central provinces. There the buffalo are sold for plowing and other ground preparations for planting of the rice crop. It takes about two months for the buffaloes to make the annual push. When they reach the central plains they are shoved about from one spot to another until most are sold.

One hundred years ago the latest thing in railroad trains traveled at the speed of 15 to 20 miles an hour.

THE RUMINATOR

A Column of Contrary Opinion
By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

There may be readers of this column who suspect, because of the recent drop in the stock market, that the "contrary theory" has also come a cropper.

The Ruminator would have to take issue with this. The theory of being contrary to general opinion is a broad-gauged measuring stick and is not a caliper for close measurements.

The contrary-opinion theory also lacks the one ingredient which would improve all forecasts of coming events: namely, gauging the "time element." The future is a economic history, no tool for estimating the elusive element of time has ever been devised which has stood the test of the repeated twists and turns in the cycles.

Every now and then a new "system" is developed, for which its originators claim great things. Often, these systems are checked back many years, and apparently they appear to have worked out well "in the past." Yet, as the future unfolds, bugs develop in the system, and the system fails to have the accuracy its past history indicated. Any "method" to be successful must "measure" mass psychology.

The Ruminator has perhaps studied the history of speculation in this country, as practiced on our stock markets, as thoroughly as anyone. Some years ago, while gathering material for a history of the New York Stock Exchange, access was had to old records and archives in the Exchange. Countless old pamphlets, letters and books were scanned. Old newspapers, on file in the New York Public Library, covering a century and a half, were gone over, on the hunt for items which might have bearing on the history.

This is related merely to bring out the point that "systems to beat the market" are as old as speculation itself. Yet, through booms and panics, through bull markets and bear markets, the ONLY trait found ALWAYS present, in all types of markets, is that the public has been wrong at important phases in market history.

The expression, "the public is always wrong," must be qualified, from a period of history. The public is frequently right—for short periods of time. (The public is right now in selling stocks, in so far as the present trend is concerned.) But, the public is wrong in the important turning points in market trends.

For example, the public is right during a rise, and buys stocks. The higher the rise, however, THE MORE THE PUBLIC BUYS, until at the top the public is buying enthusiastically just before the turn downward. Similarly, in a falling market. After a time, the public becomes bearish and sells stocks as they fall. Amateur short-sellers participate and for a time are right, and make profits. As the market falls deeper and deeper, the public becomes more bearish. The public's attitude becomes overly pessimistic. It is sure "the market cannot possibly rise." When the bottom is finally reached, the public is totally disinterested and figures the stock market is "finished."

When the upward turn comes, the public is wrong—as it was at the top. And it continues to be wrong during the initial stages of recovery. As stock prices edge upward, the public continues to sell, believing that the rise is merely a rally prior to another drop in prices.

Finally, when prices continue to advance, and activity increases, the public changes its mind and climbs aboard—only to fail to get off when the crest is approached.

That is the story of public behavior through hundreds of years of speculation and through the 150 years of stocktrading in this country.

Students of market history will be fascinated by an old book, titled "Ten Years in Wall Street—or, Revelations and Experiences on 'Change.'" It was published in 1870, the author, William Worthington Fowler, signing it, "All of which I saw, and part of which I was, since 1857." (Worthington, Dutton & Co., publisher.) It is full of personal anecdotes, and relates numerous stories of the old-time buccannery of Wall Street.

Referring to the fact that "most of the operators in Wall Street come out minus the sum total of their operations," the author places the blame on greed and avarice, shoe-string speculation on small margins (which were as little as five per cent in those days), and the desire to make a quick killing. He then adds, as another reason for stock-market losses by the public, "the fact that most of the outside public buys stocks when they are high and rampant, and sells short when they are low and weak."

Wherever you read of speculation, or investment, for that matter, you find the same repetition of human behavior.

However, nowhere will you find anyone who has solved the riddle of "timing the turns."

Coming back to the present: The contrary opinion has been interpreted as being right during the several sinking spells in the market since the severe post-election drop in stock prices last November. This contrary opinion has, unfortunately, no bearing on the exact level, or even the approximate date, of the market's upward turn. The theory merely tells us that current public bearishness and pessimism on stock prices will be wrong—but it withholds the secret of "when." It should be added that if the market, as reflected in the Dow Jones Industrial Average, breaks through the three-year-old "low" of 163, and the Wall Average drops under 41, renewed severe selling would doubtless be a temporary shock.

The contrary theory is not a "system to beat the market." It is, rather, a check on one's thinking to prevent being carried away when "the pendulum swings too far."

4-H's Preparing For County Fair

With the annual Ulster County Fair and Farmers' Field Day only two months away, 4-H Club youngsters are beginning preparations for their exhibits and contests.

The fair will be held at Forsyth Park in Kingston August 17. The 4-H Clubs will have many different activities, including booths and club records, garden, livestock, poultry, homemaking, hobbies and crafts, home grounds improvement, 4-H trips and a special section of miscellaneous awards. All exhibits will be competitive, with ribbons and premiums awarded the winners.

Entry blanks and rules were sent out this week from the 4-H Club office in Kingston. The blanks must be returned to the office at 74 John street by Wednesday.

Each 4-H Club is urged by Edmund R. Bower, club agent, to have a booth at the fair to show the public what they are doing.

At least one member is required to be in attendance at the booths and available to answer questions from the public during the hours of the fair. Club scrapbooks, secretary's book and treasurer's book may be exhibited.

Saunders in Hospital
A. F. Saunders of 13 Finger street, Saugerties, clerk of the Saugerties Board of Education, is a patient at Kingston Hospital. His condition today was reported as "good" by hospital authorities.

G.O.P. Seeks Farm Votes With Offer

Alliance, Neb., June 11 (AP)—Republicans fired the opening gun in the battle for midwestern farm votes last night with an offer of an agricultural program free of government control.

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, Republican floor leader of the Senate, told the Nebraska Stock Growers Association that "river-son, not destruction" is the key to the solution of farm purposes. Wherry put forth his plan while top-ranking Truman administration leaders were preparing for conference at Des Moines, Iowa, Monday, to sell the midwest on their own farm program.

Democratic leaders in Washington parried the Nebraska on-the-ground, jump-the-gun attack with radio talks (N.B.C.) by Senator J. Howard McGrath, chairman of the Democratic national committee and Rep. Bierhiller (N.W.S.).

They explained the Breanran farm program, which would drop the prices of perishable farm products to go down, with the difference to farmers made up through government subsidies.

Democrats plan to lay this program before the Des Moines meeting in their drive to hold farm belt votes won by President Truman in the 1948 campaign. They are usually regarded as opponents to win back their midwest dominance.

Wherry called the administration plan socialistic. He said it is being sold to farmers as a guarantee of high income from unlimited production, and to consumers as a guarantee of low prices from uncontrolled production.

These promises cannot be kept, he said.

Instead, he offered a "new approach." Remove "government regimentation," let farmers alone. Then, if a surplus develops, divert some of it abroad, channel the domestic overflow into "industrial uses in the form of alcohol for motor fuel and in other forms for hundreds of purposes."

He suggested use of a two-price system.

Rotary Club Hears Talk By Conservation Deputy

An interesting talk on conservation was given before the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club by J. Victor Skiff, deputy commissioner of the New York State Conservation Department. He was introduced by program chairman, Allan Hantstein, and described the importance of conservation of natural timber and crop land resources, to state and national economy.

Skiff explained that the current business together with hunting, fishing and associated recreation activities is second in scope in New York state only to the manufacturing industry. At the present time there are 2500 employees in the conservation department, of which, 250 are in the forestry division. The duties of this division include the production of new and better timber, fire patrol and supervision of the 31 camp sites in the state.

The department cooperates actively with farmers in connection with soil and crop problems and also has 180 field agents in connection with the enforcement of the fish and game laws, and the restocking and protection of fish hatcheries.

The department is interested in introducing the study of conservation as part of the present curriculum in the public schools. Some legislative action has been taken in this direction. Many interesting and unknown aspects of the Conservation Department and its duties were presented by the speaker.

Misinformation, He Says

San Jose, Calif., June 11 (AP)—Charges of "sledge-hammer" security methods in guarding atomic secrets were made last night by Robert A. Dacorso, top secretary of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Dacorso spoke before the California chapter of the I.B.I. National Academy Association. He said the public had been misinformed concerning the seriousness of atomic energy information losses.

Officer's Mistake

Washington, June 11 (AP)—President Truman has demanded a full report of the army's labeling of a "unemployable" for a foreign assignment despite the army's explanation that it was all a mistake. The army really doesn't consider Clapp, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, "unemployable." It said a junior officer just chose the wrong word.

Francis McGuire, chaplain; Ben E. Enley, secretary; George Ostermiller, sergeant-at-arms; John Ludlow, Sr., post historian; Charles F. Kaiser, Jr., judge advocate; William R. Rose, director for five years.

Everett W. Coty, Joseph Grable and Raymond Eckert are delegates to the county convention; alternates Michael Denier, William Eckert, R. Earl Haley and Stanley Lawrence.

The town of Wawarsing publicity brochure of which 10,000 were printed, is being distributed.

Miss Jean Marie Christiansa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Christiansa of Kripplerbush, was married Sunday to Julius Haener, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Haener of Ellenville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. C. Schmidt, at the Kripplerbush Reformed Church. The couple left for wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Canada. The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, was employed by J. R. Miller Associates of Kingston. Mr. Haener is a graduate of Ellenville High School, served two years in the army and now is employed at the Ellenville post office.

At the final meeting for the year of the Mothers' Club of the Pine Grove School, Mrs. J. Vincenta was elected president. Other officers: Mrs. Carl Miller, vice president; Mrs. Jack Berman, secretary; Mrs. Milton Kossar, treasurer. A covered dish supper was served after the meeting.

Parking meter collections for the week ended Tuesday were $246.59, a drop of about $30 from the holiday week.

L. E. Vernon, Mrs. Dean S. Ellertson and son, Donald, attended the graduation exercises at West Point June 7, when Stanley Vernon Ellertson received his commission as second lieutenant in the U. S. Army and his B. S. degree.

Firemen were called out on two alarms Tuesday. The first was at 3 a. m. when the house trailer of Dr. Charles E. Freer, in the rear of the former Freer property on Wawarsing road, was badly damaged inside. It was unoccupied. The second alarm was at 1:30 p. m. when fire spread from a refuse barrel at the rear of the Van Kleef garage on North Main street, to a pile of wood. No damage of consequence. Ellenville folks now are waiting for the third alarm.

Recent births at the Veterans Memorial Hospital: Son to Mr. and Mrs. Frieda S. McGowan; daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Costigan of Napanoch; daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Harold DeWitt of Ellenville; daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Warshaw of Ellenville; son to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thompson of Napanoch; son to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hunlock of Ellenville; son to Mr. and Mrs. F. Raymond Lepke of Ulster Heights.

The Dutch Guild of the Reformed Church will hold a covered dish supper at the camp of Mrs. Irving Richmond, The Cape, Monday evening.

It is announced that Dr. Charles B. Freer has purchased from the Channel Master Corporation the Yama Dairy Farms building and a portion of the property, located opposite the Fantehill Cemetery. He has moved his veterinary hospital to that place.

The Shawangunk Garden Club met Monday at Lake Mohonk. It was Garden Week at the Lake and members of the New Paltz and Montgomery Garden Clubs also were present.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

OVERDOING PRESENT-GIVING

A reader asks: "Can't the practice of giving presents be overdone? Meaning, isn't it just as lacking in taste to take a present sometimes as it is thoughtless to overlook one at others? It seems to be customary here to take a little something to the hostess whether going just for the afternoon, or to dinner, or to stay with her for a week-end."

I certainly agree that present-giving can be overdone, but if it is a fixed custom where you live, it is, of course, best to follow it—most especially if you are a stranger. If you are a member of an old family, you could do your part in changing a custom of which you do not approve.

Restaurant Behavior

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper for a young woman to sit down at a restaurant table across from a man she has known fairly well for years, even though she did not come to lunch with him?

Answer: If there are empty tables, she should sit by herself. But if the restaurant is crowded and she has to sit with someone, it would certainly be sensible to sit with someone she knows. She must be sure, however, to pay her own bill even though he may insist otherwise.

Introductions

Dear Mrs. Post: Please tell me the proper way to introduce Mary Smith and John Jones—both good friends of mine but unknown to each other. Should it be "Mary Smith, I'd like you to meet John Jones" or "John Jones, I'd like you to meet Mary Smith?"

Answer: It should be "Miss Smith, may I introduce Mr. Jones?" or if you wish to make it very formal, you say, "Mary, this is John Jones" and then add, to him, "Mary Smith."

Men Pay Rental

Dear Mrs. Post: When the men, or at least some of them, have to rent their formal suits to be worn in the wedding, who is responsible for paying the rental?

Answer: They are.

Introductions

Introductions should be very simple. Forms of introductions, and the reply are given in Mrs. Post's leaflet, E-17, "Introductions." To obtain a copy, send 5 cents in coin and a stamped addressed envelope to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station C, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

School Music Department Reports Successful Year; Letters Will Be Awarded to Forty

With the performance of Faure's Requiem by the High School Chorus Sunday at 4 p. m., and the participation of the A Cappella Choir and the orchestra in the graduation exercises Tuesday, June 28, the Public School Music Department is closing a successful school year. Other activities have included a picnic for band and orchestra members at North Lake Saturday, June 4.

At the close of school, letters will be awarded to member of the band and orchestra who have participated in the various activities of these organizations. The activities include such extra-curricular services as parades, school assemblies and concerts. At the conclusion of two years' service with the band and orchestra, provisional letters are awarded students who participate. If the student continues to engage in these activities satisfactorily for a third year, the letter becomes his permanent possession.

The following members are to be awarded letters this year: Band—George Braye, George Lamoreaux, John LeFevor, Leonard Lynch, Connie Reppert, Bruce Wilson.

Orchestra—Nancy Barnum, Alice Brown, Susanne Dunbar, Geoffrey Fletcher, Paul Jeffrey, Henry Levy, William Mould, Arthur Peters, Kathleen Sauers, John Smith, Ellen Thomas, Justine VanBramer, Barbara Wilson.

Orchestra and Band—Roy Boldt, Richard Campbell, Harry Castiglione, Janet Cole, Donald N. DeWitt, Philip Plamm, Helen Kukulik, John Leacock, Joseph McNierny, Philip Naccarato, Raymond Pardee, Betty Smith.

Drum Major—John Glennon.

Twirlers—Nancy Hotelling, Marjorie Jahn, Phyllis Kirchner, Delores Kuedtke, Janet Lyons, Barbara Snyder.

Marlin E. Morette, director of the high-school band, has appointed Philip Naccarato as drum major and Arthur Peters as student manager of the band for next year.

The Music Department is well pleased with the interest already shown in the summer program recently announced. So far well over 100 students have signed for the beginning band and orchestra program and have now created the problem for school authorities of finding sufficient instruments to supply the whole group.

Would Destroy U.N.

Grinnell, Iowa, June 11 (AP)—Assistant Secretary of State George Allen says aggression, if it comes, will destroy the United Nations. He added in an address at Grinnell College Institute of International Affairs, "I fervently hope it will not. But we who believe in this great world organization and are working and praying for its success are apprehensive. Allen, in charge of public affairs for the State Department, blamed Russia for fear the United Nations will fail. He said Russia "must dominate or it refuses to play on the team."

Also Need Foster Homes

Cleveland, June 11 (AP)—Old people as well as children need foster homes, the national conference of Jewish social welfare heard yesterday. William Posner, supervisor of Queens-Nassau Jewish family services, New York, said old people, like youngsters desire to feel wanted. The new trend toward the private home and away from institutions, he explained, is a partial answer to the overcrowding and long waiting lists which have complicated institutional care.

So They Say...

The choice is not between order and liberty. It is between liberty without order and anarchy without either. There is danger that, if the (Supreme) Court does not temper its doctrinaire logic with a little practical wisdom, it will convert the Constitutional Bill of Rights into a suicide pact.

—Justice Robert H. Jackson, in a dissenting opinion on the Terminiello free speech case.

Within those two million people (of Berlin) there has been re-born a soul, a will to sacrifice, to earn—to have what you here...always will have because you will never give it up.

—Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

The only man afraid of a lie detector is a liar.

—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R) of Wisconsin, urging use of lie detectors in the Senate investigation of the "Malmady Massacre" case.

This program (farm price supports now in effect) has been built up over the past 16 years and has worked pretty well in both peace and war. I don't look for any revolutionary changes in it.

—R. Harold D. Cooley (D) of North Carolina.

It is not too late to save the system which has made America the envy and the hope of mankind. But we must have less emotion, less propaganda, less wishful thinking, and a tougher scrutiny of promises in relation to results.

—Bruce Barton, advertising executive and former congressman.

Questions—Answers

Q—When did Joseph Jefferson first play Rip Van Winkle?

A—Jefferson first appeared in this famous play in London in 1865. His last stage appearance was in 1904.

Q—What are the requirements to join the D. A. R.?

A—It is necessary for one to submit proof of a direct ancestor who rendered patriotic service during the American Revolution.

Q—How long has the game of whist been played in England?

A—This game is probably derived from an English 16th century game called triumph. The name whist was first used in the 17th century.

Q—Is Fort Knox open to the general public?

A—Although the Treasury Department in Washington receives many letters asking for a pass to the gold depository, nobody is allowed to enter except Treasury officials and on rare occasions certain very important persons.

Q—Did General Cornwallis surrender his sword to George Washington?

A—George Washington appointed Gen. Benjamin Lincoln to accept the terms of surrender, including the laying down of arms. As Lord Cornwallis did not appear, pleading illness, General Lincoln received the British general's sword from the subordinate who represented him.

Q—Held for Protection

New York, June 11 (AP)—Three men, described by police as eye-witnesses to the fatal stabbing of William Lurye, garment union organizer, were being held in custody today for their own protection. General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente yesterday set bail of $50,000 each for the three.

They are Samuel Blumenthal, 30, and Martin Sherman, 35, both described as bookmakers, and Jacob Frankel, 40, a necktie peddler.

Police said all three men admitted they were in the hallway of a garment district building on May 9 when Lurye was stabbed in a telephone booth. The A.F.L. International Ladies Garment Workers Union, for which Lurye worked, has offered a $25,000 reward for the killers.

Nevada is known as the Sagebrush State and its official flower is the sagebrush.

Actor's Wife Stricken

New York, June 11 (AP)—Helen Irene Tracy, wife of actor Lee Tracy, was in a serious condition in a hospital today, after being found unconscious in her hotel suite. Mrs. Tracy, 37, a native of Waukegan, Pa., occupied a suite at the Hotel Astor with her husband, who until recently has been appearing on Broadway in Herman Wouk's play, "The Traitor." She was found unconscious on the floor of the suite by a hotel employee, police said. Tracy said he was downstairs in the lobby when she was stricken. "She had been perfectly well," he said. "She just suddenly became ill, very ill." The Tracys' home is in Los Angeles. They have been married about 10 years.

State Palsy Unit Will Convene Here

Kingston has been chosen for the next state-wide meeting of the New York State Cerebral Palsy Association on September 10 and 11. It was announced today by Mrs. George Clark, vice-president of the Ulster County Cerebral Palsy Association.

Decision to meet in this city was made at the third anniversary meeting of the state group in Schoenectady June 4 and 5, which Mrs. Clark attended as a delegate.

The meeting will bring delegates from 25 local organizations to this city and many authorities from the medical profession who specialize in treatment of cerebral palsy will come as speakers. Election of officers will be held at this meeting.

The Ulster county group joined the state association at the June meeting in Schoenectady.

V.F.W. Post Meets On Tuesday Night

The first of the regular bi-monthly meetings of Joyce-Schirlick Post, 1386, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be held at the post home, Delaware avenue, on Tuesday at 8 p. m.

Commander Sidney Lane has requested a large attendance as several matters of importance will be discussed. A final report on the television committee also will be presented.

In announcing next Tuesday's meeting, Commander Lane also called attention to the Post's benefit dance scheduled Monday night, June 13, at the municipal auditorium. The dance is being held for the benefit of victims of Tuesday's fire in downtown Kingston.

BY WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

Today's hand on false-carding was selected from an article written by Alfred P. Sheinwald for The Bridge World. The article is entitled "Practical Bridge." However, it is also well-thought-out bridge of the type that will make the game more enjoyable for you.

If the opponents get all the cards and gaily bid for a game or a slam which is ice-cold, you are the loser. Not too many people like to lose. Too often, Mr. Sheinwald points out, players give up, while if they had their hinking caps on they could defeat some supposedly ice-cold contracts.

On the opening lead of the ten of diamonds, declarer played the five-spot from dummy and East won with the king. East returned a club which West won with the ace. He continued with a club which declarer won. He took three rounds of trumps, winning the last in his own hand, then played a small spade toward dummy.

The mechanical player sitting West would simply put on the six-spot. Declarer would finesse the nine-spot and East would win with the queen. Now, when declarer won the next trick, he would finesse the jack of spades and make his contract.

However, if you want to defeat this contract, Mr. Sheinwald says, be practical. Try to make the cards give declarer the wrong impression. When he leads the deuce of spades, put up your king right away. Declarer will win the trick in dummy with the ace, come back to his own hand and lead toward the jack of spades.

Now when you play the six-spot, declarer must guess. He will figure that you originally held the king-queen-six of spades, and that when you played the king, you were splitting your honors. He will play the jack from dummy, East will win with the queen and return a spade. This will defeat the contract.

Awaiting Trieste
Trieste, June 11 (AP)—Italian Premier Alcide De Gasperi told a political campaign rally last night "the Italian government awaits the return of Trieste." His address climaxed a campaign for the free city's first municipal elections in 27 years, scheduled for tomorrow. The United States and Britain have urged the return to Italy of this East-West trouble spot.

Yugoslavia wants Trieste and Russia has opposed its return to Italian rule, despite Yugoslav Premier Marshal Tito's differences with the Soviet-inspired population.
